Pelahatchie Police Department recognizes officers

By Susie A. Wolfe

At the January 7 Pelahatchie Board Meeting, four Pelahatchie Police Department (PPD) officers were recognized for outstanding work in the field during the holidays by their new chief, Joseph Daughtry, Sr.

"We are very proud of our young officers and their desire to serve the Town," said the Chief. "They are friendly and professional and are excited about learning. Their minds are like sponges."

Kendrell Canada and Billy Pickle helped prevent a suicide, with Pickle talking the victim down. Pickle, Justin Stevens, and Jason Watkins apprehended a suspect with crystal meth and marijuana just after the Pelahatchie Christmas Parade in December.

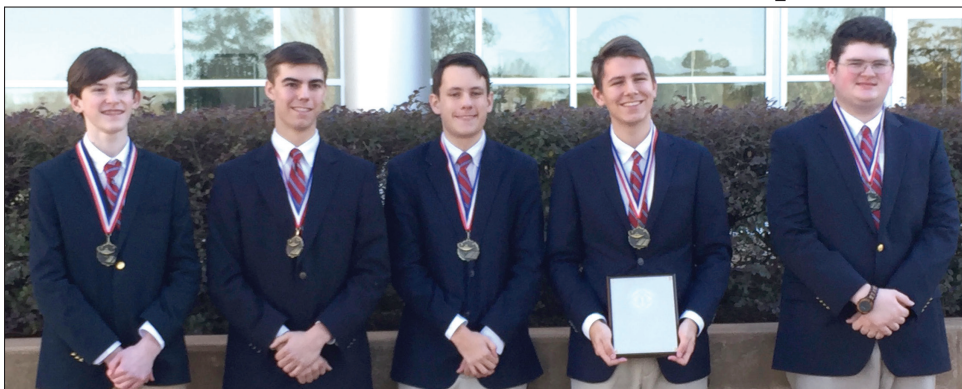

Stevens was also recognized for finding a purse that contained over $200 that belonged to a special needs' student on the side of the road. The student had been saving the money for Christmas.

Town Attorney Wolf resigns

By Susie A. Wolfe

Michael Wolf served as Pelahatchie Town Attorney for seven months. He resigned at the January 7 Board Meeting citing "It's the right time." The Board had put his contract on a month-to-month basis that had to be approved at each meeting. He was the third attorney in 18 months. Longtime attorney Chris Palmer resigned with the new administration, then Brad Mills was hired. Wolf was appointed after Mills resigned last summer. Wolf helped the Town establish a new budget, consolidate a couple of water associations, and clarified various ordinances. At press time, interviews were expected to be conducted around February 1.

Milltown Park set to be finished in March

Chief Joseph Daughtry brings 23 years law enforcement experience to the Pelahatchie Police Department.

By Susie A. Wolfe

The track and playground are the only areas being used at Milltown Park right now. The ballfields remain idle waiting to be finished and used. The Safe Room is waiting for a lift-station to finish the bathrooms before it will be opened in case of emergency.

Mayor Ryshonda Beechem said she has been in touch with the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency (MEMA), who had to approve a $3,000 increase in the cost of the lift-station from the time it was estimated until it was to be installed. The Mayor said the paperwork was finalized on January 7, so it will be 8-10 weeks before completion.

When asked why the ball fields were not in use, she said that the Board of Aldermen have not approved any expenditures to finish the fields or even keep the park presentable.

Beechem also said she needs a volunteer/possible part-time park director to oversee development of teams and scheduling.

Mark's Auto Sales offers autos and buildings

By Susie A. Wolfe

Forest native Mark Pinter moved his 12-year-old car sales business from Forest to Pelahatchie in December. He sells cars, SUVs, campers and trucks. He also sold Derksen buildings in Forest since 2006.

For the portable storage buildings, they offer rent-to-own, cash or twelve months same as cash with approved credit.

Pinter said, "Derksen is a great company, offering good quality-built buildings."

Pinter is married to Jodie, and they have three children, John Mark, a graphic design student at Mississippi College; and Abby, 16 and Carson, 8, who attend Lake schools. They are members of Sulphur Springs Baptist Church in Sebastopol.

Mark's Auto Sales is open Monday through Friday, 9-5:30 and Saturday, 9-1. For more information, visit their Facebook page or web page at www.marksautollc.com.

Mark's Auto Sales started in 2005 in Forest.

Planning for spring fields

By Doug Carter,
Rankin County
Extension Agent

Special to
Pelahatchie News

As we go into spring, farmers need to remember that pastures are more productive with proper fertilization. Soils constantly undergo physical and chemical changes. Some plant nutrients are removed in harvested crops or harvested hay. Some are lost to leaching or erosion. Spring is a good time to soil test your permanent pastures of bahiagrass and bermuda grass, and hay fields. Follow the soil test recommendations to apply lime and other recommended nutrients.

The pH of the soil tells you if the soil needs lime. Where it is needed, lime is the most effective and inexpensive aid available for soil improvement. If the soil pH requires more than one ton of lime per acre, then concentrate on liming the field first. Soil pH can impact root development and the plant cannot take advantage of the applied fertilizer. Low fertilizer uptake can translate in low fertilizer use efficiency. Follow soil test recommendations on amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium.

Do not apply fertilizer blindly and assess the economic aspect of your nutrient management plan. Before applying any fertilizer to bahiagrass or bermuda grass this spring, it is important that pasture has at least 80-90% green up.

Also, in the spring, scout your fields and identify weeds to develop a broad herbicide application plan, which will be economic and effective. Some broadleaf weeds can be fast growing early in the spring and can shade your grasses and reduce production. It is very important to develop an aggressive weed control program to reduce competition for moisture and nutrients.

State Testing issue on the front burner again

By Guest Columnist
Mississippi Representative
Tom Miles

Special to
Pelahatchie News

Not only is the Legislature back in session, the issue of state testing is back as well. So far, there have been four bills filed in the House that will stop the state's punitive system of keeping capable students from receiving their diplomas because of state tests. I am a sponsor of each one of them. And, in this time of fierce partisanship everywhere you turn, it's great to report that both Democrats and Republicans have signed onto these measures right along beside me.

We are advocating, among other things, that students' ACT test grades will be sufficient to show their college readiness and level of understanding of subject matter.

If a student has passed the required coursework, we say they should be allowed to graduate, and that a single test shouldn't prevent it.

This issue is simply not going away, no matter how complicated some people want to make it. We've all heard ev-everything from the outright story-telling that "no student is kept from graduating because of failed tests," to "the federal government makes us do it."

In a recent radio appearance with me, the State Superintendent even said that the ACT couldn't provide the proper measurements of student achievement.

That's hardly what the other XX states who are using the ACT in lieu of state-mandated testing have to say.

Mississippi does not have to be last in repairing the damage that's been done to our education system by this ill-considered system. The majority of states have already steered away from mandatory testing.

Our educators report horror tales of their class time being dominated by test preparation. Many school activities, rather than being knowledge expanding for students, are nothing but pep rallies for test scores. Students are under immense pressure to pass the state tests – from as early as first grade.

For some parents, it is already a difficult task to keep their youngsters enthusiastic about school. With the gloom of test-taking lurking over their heads, it's even harder. It is heart-breaking to hear some of the stories from parents and teachers about the emotional toll this system is taking on our young people.

It's time to let the teachers teach. It's time for our students to have a fully rounded education experience, free of imposed, artificial restrictions and needlessly stressful demands.

It's also time to divert the millions of dollars being paid to a testing company back into the classrooms where it belongs. Some estimates have the amount as high as $110 million for the testing program. How far would that go to help bring our teachers' salaries up to decent levels? How many classrooms could be repaired? How many new buses would that buy?

Using the ACT rather than these expensive state-mandated tests is a sensible solution to the need for evaluating our students' college readiness. The state is already paying for all juniors to take this test – without excess test training necessary. No college is going to ask what a student made on an "exit" exam. They are going to ask what that student made on the ACT. That's because the test is recognized as a valid measurement of student college readiness.

Some very smart students are just not good test takers. Their anxiety at test taking time affects their scores. Some students dread the tests so much that they just drop out of school rather than take them. That is surely not a wholesome outcome for a child's public school experience.

This is the third straight year that my colleagues and I have attempted to make this change to help our students and teachers. I hope that the third time is the charm.

It's time to let the teachers teach. #LetTheTeachersTeach

Vance Cox is a Republican candidate for Mississippi House District

Special to
Pelahatchie News

By Vance Cox

I'm Vance Cox, and I'm honored to announce that I have qualified as a Republican candidate for District 75 in the House of Representatives. As a lifelong resident of Forest, Mississippi, I'm asking for your support to represent our district with a strong conservative voice. I am the proud owner of Cox Chevron, a family-owned convenience store serving Forest since 1963. I graduated from Forest High School in 1990. While at the University of Southern Mississippi, I met my future wife Amanda Agerton Cox, and we have been happily married for 22 years. Amanda works as a practicing physical therapist and is currently employed with Elite Physical Therapy. We have two boys, Briggs (19) and Bonner (17), and they both attended Forest Municipal School District. We are active members of St. Paul's Catholic Church in Flowood. I am a proud member and past President of Forest Rotary Club. I have also served as President of the Forest Country Club, President of the Forest Elementary School PTO, board member for the Forest Area Chamber of Commerce, and Chairman for the Scott County Republican Party.

I am asking for your support in 2019 so that we can bring a strong conservative voice to the state legislature while representing the needs of Scott and Rankin counties. As a business leader, I understand the need to promote legislation that cuts taxes and regulations to bring better jobs and opportunities to District 75. Our district needs a representative that can effectively represent our conservative values, not just another career politician.

As a father, I am very passionate about the public school system. We have two children who attended Forest Municipal School District (FMSD), and I understand the need for a strong and thriving public school. My wife and I have been active supporters of all local school activities and take pride in our family's support of the FMSD. As your representative, I'll fight to protect our schools.

Our current representative does not represent the values of our district. I'm asking for your support as a family man who wants to represent our district with a true conservative voice for the needs of Scott and Rankin County. I'm not a career politician. I'm a resident of Scott County who wants to see our community thrive. I humbly ask for your vote and for your support.

White serving as Pelahatchie Baptist's new pastor

By Susie A. Wolfe

David White pastored Black Jack Baptist Church in Vaughan, Mississippi, for 11 years before becoming Pelahatchie Baptist Church's pastor on January 7. Coming from an area 20 miles from Yazoo City and Canton, he said he feels like he "moved to the city."

The son of a pastor, White said he knew he wanted to become a pastor in junior high school. He met his wife, Elizabeth, on a college mission trip. He also served as a student minister at Alta Woods Baptist Church in Jackson.

He graduated from Clinton High School and attended Mississippi College before getting his masters and doctorate degrees from George W. Truett Theological Seminary at Baylor University.

"My commitment is kingdom development," said White. "To make disciples and draw people to the good news of the gospel through connecting to a church, especially young people and families ages 20-50."

The Whites have two daughters, Mary Frances, sixth grade, and Martha Kate, 5K, now enrolled at Pelahatchie Elementary. They are excited to be closer to Meridian since both his and Elizabeth's parents live there.

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY

Love your local businesses

By Susie A. Wolfe

Whether giving gifts for Valentine's Day or at other times of the year, Pelahatchie residents are encouraged to shop local, which not only helps neighbors, it also helps themselves.

Each dollar spent at independent businesses returns three times more money to the local economy than one spent at a chain (AMIBA). It also helps build relationships and community cohesiveness.

Take advantage of interaction with local owners to get better service at purchase and long term. When a local business finds they don't have what customers want, they will often try to get it. To them, local customers are more than just customers - they are friends.

Chat with the Chief

By Susie A. Wolfe

Chief Joseph Daughtry, Sr.'s goal is to build a bridge between the police and the community. In his interview, he told the Board of Aldermen that he did not want to be "the" chief, he wants to be "your" chief. His goal is to be a community-oriented police department.

Daughtry recently worked as the crime prevention specialist for the Rankin County Sheriff's Department, where he set up and trained community watch groups with neighborhoods, businesses, and churches. He will use that experience to build a full-service department 24 hours a day.

He currently has four full-time officers and two part-time and is looking to hire two additional part-time officers and dispatchers.

"I am very thankful for the staff adapting to the community policing concept, which benefits the community. The citizens in Town will see the officers checking alleys plus neighborhoods and businesses at night. This department is friendly and professional, and we will be scheduling "chats with the chief" to meet everyone in the near future."

Training is top on Daughtry's agenda. He is working with the FBI on providing training free-of-charge, like customer service, tactical, and medical, that he plans to invite other towns around to participate in at the Community Center. He said he is going to build a department Facebook page to interact with the community. He will also be participating in the National Incident Based Report System on a quarterly basis.

the classroom and society as well as the ball field.

"We will be firm but fair in enforcing the laws in Pelahatchie," said Daughtry, who has all officers wearing uniforms versus polos. "I have heard the concerns about the department stability from the mayor and aldermen, and they are entrusting me with their full support at both ends. They have given me a lot of encouragement and plan to meet with me with the constituents in each ward soon."

Daughtry would also like to thank Sheriff Bryan Bailey and the Sheriff's Department for always being there when the Town needs them.

FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!

Putting forth the effort to succeed

By Guest Columnist
Teague Burchfield, Principal,
Pelahatchie High School

The second semester is off to a fast start! January has flown by, and we have completed our second round of benchmark tests with growth from our first benchmark in mind. Endurance is still the topic of conversation as we move through the third nine weeks of instruction, and into our final comprehensive benchmark tests that will take place in the weeks prior to spring break.

While we are proud of ALL of our students for their efforts, I do want to highlight several groups of students. As you well know, academic success has been promoted throughout the year. With that being said, we are extremely proud of the 22 "high honors" students as well the 97 "A/B" honor roll students from the second nine weeks. Attendance is applauded at Pelahatchie, as well, and we are proud to announce that 80 students met the ambitious expectation of "perfect attendance" for the second nine weeks.

With February upon us, I would like to take time to update you on our many extracurricular activities. While the girls and boys soccer season has come to a close, I do want to applaud Coach Creel and his squads for making great strides this season while competing in a very strong district. Coach Lukas Cotnam's archery team has begun competing as well and we look forward to many successes as our Chiefs' arrows fly. Regarding basketball, Coach Fairley and Coach Lyles have their teams prepared for a strong finish. We are fortunate to host the district tournament this year February 11-15 and would appreciate your support and attendance. Stay tuned for more specific details as district play comes to an end and seeding is finalized. Thanks for your continued support of Pelahatchie High School and as always GO CHIEFS!

Bradford selected as Rankin County School District Secondary Administrator of the Month

Special to Pelahatchie News

Lewis Bradford, Pelahatchie High School (PHS) assistant principal, was selected as the Rankin County School District (RCSD) Secondary Administrator of the Month for January. The school's Facebook post said "Mr. Bradford has been a true representation of a Chief leader in every way. His passion for our students and community is evident in all he does. Thank you, Mr. Lewis Bradford, for your hard work and dedication to our students, school, and community."

Performance Therapy opens seventh clinic in Pelahatchie

The Performance Therapy Pelahatchie clinic will open Monday, February 11. It is owner Dan Young's seventh clinic.

Young attended Pisgah schools until his family moved to the Carthage area when he was in the ninth grade. So, as he is expanding his group of physical therapy (PT) clinics in Central Mississippi, he took advantage of a location in downtown Pelahatchie.

After graduating from Leake Academy, East Central Community College, and the University of Mississippi Medical Center, Young served as director of Performance Therapy in Philadelphia for one year before purchasing the clinic in 2004. He added the Carthage clinic in 2005, Sebastopol in 2013, DeKalb in 2015, and Canton and Gluckstadt in 2018. He also works with Baptist Medical at the Leake-Carthage Hospital.

Young said they will treat patients with spinal cord injuries, strokes, and balance issues as well as shoulders, knees and total joint replacement. They will provide general outpatient physical therapy to all ages, addressing orthopedic problems, back pain, neck pain and sports-related injuries. Patients will need a prescription from their doctor. Spencer Shoemaker is the therapist.

Performance Therapy invites town-folk to stop by after February 11, but an open house will be scheduled in the near future. Hours will be from 8-5 Monday through Friday but will be flexible as needed. Call 601-854-0000 for more information.

Rankin County Road Department receives national awards

Special to Pelahatchie News

The Rankin Road Department received two national awards for their pavement management efforts in 2018—the Asphalt Emulsion Manufacturers Association (AEMA) Presidents' Award and the International Slurry Surfacing Association (ISSA) Excellence in Pavement Preservation Award. The Road Department is responsible for 1,200 miles with the county, including 205 bridges.

The County has made great progress in recent years in implementing a pavement preservation program which treats roads at the proper time, extending roadway life for as much as 40% less than the average industry cost of the conventional treatment. The program includes improved tracing of roadway conditions throughout the network in order to gauge the best and most cost-effective options.

"We are taking a more economical approach to enhancing our roads in order to be able to add more miles in our budget without having to sacrifice quality," said Steve Gaines, Rankin County Road Supervisor, District Four. "In fact, the use of pavement preservation products on the right roads at the right time has resulted in even better quality than we had before, and feedback we have received from the community post applications has been great."

"These awards, presented annually by ISSA and AEMA to public officials, engineers or agencies, are a tribute to Rankin County's outstanding efforts to realize the benefits of pavement preservation and maximize the effectiveness of taxpayer funds," said AEMA/ISSA Executive Director Kristi Olson. "The Rankin County Road Department is to be congratulated for their planning and implementation of a cost-effective pavement program designed to maintain a healthy road network."

Pastor's perspective: Share what God has done for you

By Guest Columnist
John Vaughn, Pastor,
Cross Roads Baptist Church

Special to
Pelahatchie News

We recently had a visit from long-time friend who was a missionary colleague in Brazil.

Jack Day and his wife, Doris, served as missionaries in Brazil for over 33 years. While in Brazil, they served for a number of years planting churches in the poverty-stricken northeast part of the country. In their later years, when we first met them, they developed a method of sharing the gospel by simply telling the stories of the Bible. This was particularly useful in Brazil because of the high illiteracy rate in much of the country. They traveled all over Brazil holding training clinics to teach Brazilian leaders and others how to utilize the Bible storying method of sharing the Gospel. For each Bible story, there were follow-up questions to make sure that those hearing the story understood it. Then they always included life lessons that could be learned from each story. Only the Lord knows the full impact that their Gospel sharing techniques have made in the lives of those who heard the stories.

Jack and Doris retired from the mission field in 2003. They bought a house in Alabama and settled down to enjoy retirement. But, they realized that the storying method of teaching the Bible was needed in the U.S. as well. So they began adapting their methods for use in their own country. Doris worked primarily on materials for children and Jack for adults. They began to travel to train others how to use the methods.

A few years ago, Doris was diagnosed with a serious, life-threatening disease. She put up a valiant, faith-filled fight, but some months ago, she passed away. Jack didn't feel like he would be able to continue to live in the home without Doris being there. So he sold the house, and, after allowing his children to select any items they wanted, he sold all of the furniture too! He purchased a recreational vehicle to live in. He pulls his jeep behind the RV with a kayak and bicycle strapped to the roof of it.

Jack has traveled around the country in his new home. He spends his time reading, working on a book he is writing, and on developing additional materials in English to teach the Bible storying method of sharing the gospel. He also plans to identify small churches that he might be able to help and encourage. He will be able to park his RV near the church and spend as little or as much time as needed. In other words, he wants to be as active in the Lord's work for as long as he can.

Jack and Doris Day provide an example that all of us need to follow. You may never serve the Lord as a career missionary, but there are certainly ways that you can serve the Lord where you are. You may never write a book. But you could certainly write a card to encourage someone who needs to hear a kind word. You may never develop a new way to share the gospel, but you can certainly share what God has done for you. You may not be able to travel around the country to serve, but you have a telephone that you can use to call anyone anywhere and visit with them.

God's desire is that everyone who calls Him Savior should also recognize Him as Lord. And if He is our Lord, then we are His servants. The question is not "Should I serve?" The question should always be, "Lord, how do you want me to serve?"

God is not so much interested in what you think are your abilities or capabilities. He is much more interested in your availability. If you will make yourself available to the Lord, He will equip you to do whatever it is that He wants you to do. And you don't have to look very far to find things you can do. If you attend a Church, there are always needs that go unmet. There are several community service organizations in our community that are always looking for volunteers. And, if you can't get out or do the things you used to do, you can always write a note or make a phone call. Finally, one of the most powerful ways to serve is by praying for others. And you can do that anytime from any place.

Paul tells us in Colossians 3:23-24, "Whatever you do, work at it with all your heart, as working for the Lord, not for men, since you know that you will receive an inheritance from the Lord as a reward. It is the Lord Christ you are serving."

Blessings to you! Be sure to take your family to church next Sunday!
